Hi Steve,

Just a heads up that we've received a report of an oil sheen at the Nashville airport, likely related to the Colonial Pipeline spill. The location is on the other side of the airport, but with all the rain we had this week, product may have followed the pipe trench to this area (it's the lowest spot on the property).

I've talked with the airport, and they've collected water samples and requested rush analysis. I have not yet connected with Colonial Pipeline. I'll let you know what I find out.

Thanks,
April
